Gaunilo S Reply To Anselm

Gaunilo, a monk who was a contemporary of St. Anselm, offered an early and influential reply to the ontological argument. 1 Gaunilo's 'Lost Island' argument. We saw in our discussion of Anselm that Anselm was trying to provide a reductio ad absurdum of the atheist's position, by showing that the supposition that God does not exist in reality leads to an absurdity.

ANSELM'S APOLOGETIC. IN REPLY TO GAUNILLO'S ANSWER IN BEHALF OF THE FOOL. IT was a fool against whom the argument of my Proslogium was directed. Seeing, however, that the author of these objections is by no means a fool, and is a Catholic, speaking in behalf of the fool, I think it sufficient that I answer the Catholic.

Criticisms of Gaunilo's Objection – Anselm's Reply The main problem with Gaunilo's objection is the definition of 'perfect'. There will be disagreements as to what makes an island perfect i.e. tropical, deserted, inhabited...etc. When we analyse it any definition here of 'perfect' in the case of an island would be subjective.

Gaunilo of Marmoutiers' objection to Anselm's Argument

Selections from Gaunilo's Response to Anselm A reply to the foregoing by a certain writer on behalf of the fool. To one who questions whether (or simply denies that) there exists something of such a nature that nothing greater can be imagined, it is said that its existence is proved in the first place by the fact that anyone denying it already has it in his thought, since upon hearing it ...

Anselm's Ontological Argument - Stage Two (Response to ...

Gaunilo's second and more famous challenge to Anselm is that we cannot go from the definition of something to its existence. He uses a reductio ad absurdum argument, which aims to show the absurdity of holding the viewpoint of Anselm, by using the example of an island. He says: We can conceive of a perfect island.

Explain Gaunilo's challenges to Anselm's Ontological ...

Gaunilo or Gaunillon (fl. 11th century) was a Benedictine monk of Marmoutier Abbey in Tours, France. He is best known for his contemporary criticism of the ontological argument for the existence of God which appeared in St Anselm's Proslogion. In his work In Behalf of the Fool, Gaunilo contends that St Anselm's ontological argument fails because logic of the same kind would force one to conclude ...

a) Explain Anselm's ontological argument (25) Saint Anselm, the author of the book The Proslogian came up with what is believed to be the first formulation of the ontological argument. The writings of the ontological argument in The Proslogian were Anselm's reflections of the passage Psalm 14:1 "Fools say in their hearts 'There is no god'" and directs his argument at the 'fools ...

Anselm's Ontological Argument and Gaunilo's Response Essay ...

Anselm's Response to Gaunilo's Objection. What was evident from Anselm's reply was that he had considered this counter argument. Anselm agreed that the island would indeed demonstrate his argument to be fallacious, but he made the critical distinction that makes all the difference in the world.
